will save their cost twice a year, by saving labor and clothes.

Those who have used them give testimony aid of Doty, we feel that we are masters of the situation."—Rev. L. Scott, Bishop M. E.

your Washing Machine is a complete success. I assure you our Machine, after a year's use, is thought more of to-day than ever, and would not be parted with under any circumstances."—Solomon Robinson.

"Your Washing Machine has been in daily use in our laundry, and the housekeeper expresses herself as highly pleased with it.

It certainly accomplishes a greater amount of work, with less labor, and does not wear

the clothes near so much as the old fashion-is dispensed with."—Wm. M. F. Round,

Col. T. L. Jones.

Our representative in Congress has put a feather in his cap, recently by his manliness in standing in the forefront of the enemy with the gallant Mr. Mungen, of Ohio, who made a speech in favor of repudiation. Mr. M., is an Ohio Democrat, and from the tone of the radical papers, toward him, we believe him to be sound, honest, and worthy. A resolution was offered in the lower House of Congress, on last Thursday, (Dec. 10th), denouncing repudiation. This resolution was offered by the black republicans, and Col. Jones and Col. Mungen, voted against it, and against the bondholding tyrants, while other so-called Democrats voted with the black republicans. They one and all voted with the blackest and meanest party on earth; the party which promised to pay the few poor loyal men, of Kentucky for their niggers, and lied to them and repudiated the debt; and yet, we are told that the reputation of our government must be sustained. The rotten old concern has got no reputation for honesty. It has in the name of liberty, been murdering, robbing and repudiating, under its present managers, until its black as its nigger proteges of the South. We are indebted to our representative, Col. Jones, for his courage and manliness, displayed in voting with Mr. Mungen, and thank him in behalf of the white democracy.

The Red River Rebellion.

Has to all appearances proved to be a success, as far as heard from, up to this date. It seems that the English Government has not paid to the Hudson Bay Company the amount of money which had been stipulated and agreed upon—and has left the refractory subjects of that Company to be subdued as best they can by that Company. How that will be done has not as yet transpired. The Canadian (now called Ontario,) Government has appropriated something near one million of dollars to encourage emigration to the Red River country.

Since the above was in type, news has been received from the Red River people, up to the 6th inst., and it is reported that McDougall the man who was appointed Governor, has been engaged in enlisting half-breeds and savages under his banner, for the purpose of making war upon the Hudson Bay Company people, and compelling them to submit to his government and his laws, right or wrong. It is to be hoped that himself and his savage gang may be utterly destroyed, that the people there may be permitted to live in peace, cultivate the soil which God has given them, unrestricted by the Royal whang-doodles of England, or the bondholding tyrants of this country.

Repudiation.

We are pleased to be able to say that one Democrat in Congress, has had the manliness to offer a bill and advocate repudiation, but it received the cold shoulder, as a matter of course. A Louisville paper asserts that the Democracy (rank and file,) are opposed to repudiation. That Editor had better get into a Democratic County, and offer a resolution in a county meeting to the effect that the Democracy favor a payment of the bonds in currency, in gold, or any other way, and we will insure him, he will not only be hissed down, but kicked out of such meeting. Such a resolution would no doubt, go down with the Louisville Democracy, made up as it is of people, only a step or two from black-republicanism, but among the old patriots of the party, the lion-hearted, the unfeigned, no such propositions would receive any countenance whatever. Repudiationists are made up of the masses, and their names are legion, and two years will not pass over the head of that Editor, before he will hear the people thunder on that question North and South—Hurrah for Repudiation.

The Snow has all passed away and Licking has become large.

Dr. N. C. Dilly.

Our highly respected representative arrived from Frankfort last Saturday, in good health and spirits. He voted, we notice, for Mr. McCreery, for the Senate, to the last, but the Frankfort Clique was opposed to the people's candidate, and Stevenson was elected. All honor to our worthy Representative.

Edwin M. Stanton.

This miserable creature has been nominated by the President, and confirmed by the Senate, for a position in the Supreme Court of the United States. It was our opinion that death and the devil would soon get him.

Suez Canal.

This great work was commenced about ten years since, and will when finished entirely, have cost $50,000,000. It is one hundred miles long—three hundred and twenty-eight feet wide, and has a depth of water twenty-six feet.

Ecumenical Council.

Adjourned to meet again on the 6th of January, 1870. The Pope is having some trouble with the French Bishops, many of them asserting their opposition to the dogma of infallibility.

We copy the following Telegram from Rome:

Rome, December 20. Cardinal Mathieu goes to Paris on a mission from the Pope to the Emperor.

A Committee of Bishops have been instructed to draft a plan for checking the growth of infidelity, in accordance with the Papal allocation.

The Pope yesterday received a deputation consisting of six hundred natives of France, and delivered an address to them in French. He explained that the recurrence of Christ-mas should teach all men the lesson of humility, which God had given to the world. On that day, said the Holy Father, was an enemy of mankind and author of revolutions.

At the conclusion of his address, the Pope, with voice softened by emotion, gave his benediction. His visitors were greatly moved, and at the conclusion of the ceremony broke forth in prolonged and enthusiastic vivas.

The following is a Telegram from Mexico, via Havana, December 18th, 1899:

"A mob had attacked a Protestant congregation at Puebla during service. The mob was led by an Imperialist officer and urged on by Priests. Many of the congregation were severely injured, and some, it is supposed, will die. The mob tried to burn the Protestants alive, using Bibles as a funeral pile. The police interfered and arrested several of the rioters. They afterwards went to several Protestant houses, insulting and threatening the inmates."

A Big Thing.

The Legislature of Kentucky met at Frankfort, and has elected a Senator. The Frankfort clique met with them. It was a huge meeting, and a huge election. The Frankfort clique done all the voting, and received all the votes—and right here, dear reader, excuse us for exclaiming in a very loud voice—"more voters." Of one thing we are certain, we must have more voters, or else we will have more cliques. The people have not reached Frankfort, yet—and we must be patient until they do. When that day shall arrive, and it must come soon, men will be sent to the United States Senate, who represent the sentiments of the people, who expect to sustain the people against the Federal Government and its aggressive policy: men who will be found at their post defending State rights, and who will not skulk behind some radical clique for protection, if a storm cloud should arise upon the political horizon. The people will send to the Senate, men of nerve, and decision—men who won't boast that Northern armies shall never cross Kentucky's soil without passing over their dead bodies, and then sneak to the rear of said armies. Oh! no, the people will send other, better and firmer material to Washington, than the kind mentioned above—and they won't enquire whether the representative is Black enough to suit old Turpin Brownlow, Butler, &c., to gain admission among that contemptible squad, or not; and men who have never stifled themselves. Perhaps the time has not come for the people to arrive in Frankfort. We shall take it for granted that such is the case, or else they would have been there this time. Therefore, Democrats of Harrison, be pleased and satisfied with representatives in the Senate, who are and have been, but a few steps removed from the radicals in faith and practice. (Mr. McCreery excepted.) Because fellow citizens, we are told that unless we elect such men to such positions, we are not National Democrats—that we must not favor repudiation, for mark you, if we do, we are not National Democrats. We must not condemn negro suffrage or negro testimony, for if we do, we are not National Democrats. In fact, and in truth, we must be fully regenerated to become National Democrats of the Frankfort Clique School—that means to hate those things which we used to love, and love those things which we used to hate.

And now, Democrats of Harrison, we have told you a few things, that you must begin to think about. Put under your feet all this talk about being faithful to principle and party, and forget it, for it amounts to nothing now, unless you propose to continue in the old and beaten paths of the Democratic party, which were trod before you by your fathers, but which has now become obnoxious to Modern Democracy. Can you give it up? You must do it! The very elements in and about Frankfort say so.

THE LOVE OF OFFICE.

A DIALOGUE BETWEEN THE WEATHER-VANE AND TOWN CLOCK OF KARAWAY-KILLALOO.—TRANSLATED FROM A MS. FOUND IN THE RUINS OF THE ABOVE CITY, IN THE YEAR 1975, BY "THE OLD ANTIQUARY."

Weather-vane.—Dear Old Town Clock, my worthy companion and friend—"Times Herald and Men's Monitor," if you have time this evening, and feel sufficiently recovered from last night's storm and piercing cold, tell me as much as you can of the conversation of those men who were so busily talking about "the love of Office," for I was so numerically blown about, that I could not catch half they said, although they talked earnestly and loud.

Old Town Clock.—My Dear Weather-vane, partner of my vicissitudes and faithful companion in office and duty to our patrons. I felt deeply pained for the trials through which you had to pass last night; and although I feel very qualmish, yet I will try and entertain you as well as my voice will let me, during these silent hours, while the busy brains of men are stilled in the lap of "Nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep."

The first words I caught as they turned the corner, were from the lips of an elderly gentleman, whose venerable appearance and grey locks are familiar to me. He said—"This excessive love of office is a dangerous and evil thing to any man—it is injurious and unjust to himself—and to those with whom he may be associated. To himself—because it is the indulgence of vanity and self-love. It has its pecuniary advantages, it is simply the love of position, honor and dignity. Motives which induce, ultimately debase the man and render him contemptible in the eyes of his fellowmen, who once respected him and placed him in office for his worthy merits."

"To his associates it is unjust, as it debars them from the enjoyment and realization of those laudable ambitions which God has implanted in the breast of every man; and still further, because it prevents that rotation in office which alone can fit them for the proper discharge of the duties of those higher positions when called upon to do so in any emergency."

"Yes," responded one of his companions, "such a one must be afraid that another should do the work better than himself, and—Nay, Brother," said the Patriarch, "let us judge motives most charitably, as in duty bound." "Well, so be it," replied the younger, "but it hurts me to see a man cling to office with such tenacity, to the injury of the society, and disrespect of the rights and dignities of his fellowmen. Such selfishness—"Hush!" replied the old man, checking his ardent young friend again, "If he had sufficient self-respect you meant to say, he would respect his office, and—" a gust of wind made my poor shivering hands rattle against my face just then, so that I could hear no more, and when I had recovered myself, they were gone.

W. V.—I thought it was something of that sort, from the little I heard, I supposed they belonged to some church, where some of the brethren love to be called "Master," and monopolize the petty dignities and honors. Well, for my part, Dear Old Clock, I think that we in any congregation that we are not human, since poor humanity alone, seems to err. You and I were found worthy and well qualified for the duties of our office; were placed here by our patrons, and have done and are willing to do "our work well as long as they want us, and then at their bidding, retire from public life altogether, or take a humbler sphere cheerfully and with due sense of the rights of others. Poor humanity, I say.

O. T. C.—"Poor humanity," in deed! I would teach them a lesson only that I am going to strike twelve, and I shall be too tired after that. Good night brother.

W. V.—Good night dear friend. We'll talk again when the nights are still and fair.

(Soliloquy.) I'll think over these things, and may be in the morning I'll send this Dialogue to the "Swen" and have it printed, and somebody else may think of it too.

[For the Cynthiana News.

"Baptism by Affusion." Mr. Editor:—We sincerely hope that you will not become weary, in publishing the articles written for your paper on the subject of baptism. It is a subject of vital importance, and demands a thorough discussion in this community. You will please admit a short article in reply to some things stated by Mr. Miller in your last issue.

It is certainly a little surprising that one of his gigantic dimensions should condescend to notice anything said by "immersionists" not knee high." We opine, that he only said this in jest, and that he really has more respect for what these persons say than he affects.

His statement that immersionists quoted such Pedobaptist authors as Calvin, Luther, Wesley, &c., to prove that they held and taught exclusive immersion is a misrepresentation. These authors are quoted to prove that Christ and his Apostles practiced immersion. This fact established and immersionists are satisfied.

They feel confident that they are doing right when they do what Christ and his Apostles did. No one, who has any respect for his reputation, can deny that the most eminent Pedobaptist commentators and Church Historians testify that immersion was the practice of the Primitive Church, and that it was the prevailing practice of all professed Christians for thirteen hundred years of the Christian Era.

The following statement taken from the Encyclopedia Americana, is in harmony with the general voice of history and the concessions of the learned. It also fully accounts for the statements of some of the early church fathers, quoted by Mr. Miller. "The immersion of the whole body was omitted only in the case of the sick, who could not leave their beds. In this case sprinkling was substituted which was called clinic baptism. The Greek Church as well as the Schismatics in the East retained the custom of immersing the whole body, but the Western Church adopted in the 15th century, the mode of baptism by sprinkling, which has been continued by the Protestants, the Baptists only excepted."

Immersionists admit that in cases of sickness persons, sometimes, in the early ages of the church had water sprinkled or poured upon them for baptism; but we are abundantly able to prove that this practice as well as that of infant baptism, originated from a false view of the efficacy of baptism which obtained in an early age of the church.

Mr. Miller's argument from the different method of travel is simply a "begging of the question." He must first prove that baptize meant to sprinkle and pour as well as immerse, before such an argument as this is worth a fig.

I think the above statements and explanations are abundantly sufficient to show that immersionists are guilty of neither, "unfairness" nor "dishonesty," in their use of the concessions of Pedobaptists in regard to immersion.

Immersionists claim that, immersion is the primary meaning of baptizo, and that whatever other meanings it may have are derived from this. They deny that it can have any meaning which forbids the idea of immersion.

They consequently deny that sprinkling and pouring are meanings of baptizo. If the advocates of sprinkling and pouring will produce any Standard Greek Lexicons that give sprinkle and pour as meanings of baptizo, or any passages in classic or Hellenic Greek, were it necessarily has either of these meanings, and show that Christ was not baptized in the Jordan, that Phillip and the Eunuch did not go down into the water, and that Paul did not mean what he said when he said, buried and raised up with Christ in baptism, immersionists will surrender the question. This they never have done, and we are quite sure they never will. Till they do this we must insist on being "buried and raised up with Christ in baptism." AN IMMERSIONIST.

P. S.—We commend the following extract from the North British Review, to the careful consideration of Mr. Miller and his friends:

"The Benefits of Classic Study." It is a mistake to say that nothing but the dead languages is taught when a boy learns Greek and Latin. What he learns in addition to these—what he learns even in the effort to learn languages, is the power of reason exercised at the same time that the memory is disciplined, and so impossible is it to substitute a different system of education for that which the experience of many centuries has approved, that we have never known a self educated man who did not exhibit, whatever the original powers of his mind, an incapacity for just reasoning. What he knows he over-estimates, and makes no allowance at all in his calculations of the possibility of his being ignorant of anything, and the effect is, that even when he is right, the conclusions to which he has come exist in his minds as prejudices, which preclude any further examination of such questions as he has made his mind upon, as it is called, and producing little influence on others, impede rather than assist the progress of truth.

Mr. Miller, concedes that he is self educated. If he will measure himself by the teaching of this extract he will probably conclude that some others are a little more than knee high. (to him). IMMERSIONIST.

The Great Pictorial Annual. Hostetter's United States Almanac for 1899, for distribution gratis, throughout the United States and all civilized countries of the Western Hemisphere, will be published about the first of January, and all who wish to understand the true philosophy of health should read and ponder the valuable suggestions it contains. In addition to admirable medical treatise on the causes, prevention and cure of a great variety of diseases, it contains a large amount of information interesting to the merchant, the mechanic, the laborer, the farmer, the planter and professional man; and the calculations have been made for such meridians and latitudes as are most suitable for a current and comprehensive NATIONAL CALENDAR.

The name, uses and extraordinary sanitary effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, are so fully and so attractively set forth in its pages, which are also illustrated with pictorial illustrations, valuable recipes for the household and farm, humorous anecdotes, and other instructive and amusing reading matter, original and selected. Among the Annals to appear with the opening of the year, this will be one of the most useful, and may be had for the asking. Send for copies to the Central Manufacturing Co., Pittsburgh, or to the nearest dealer in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The Bitters are sold in every city, town and village, and are extensively used throughout the entire civilized world.

December 16, 1899—1mo.

The Last Charge. This is the last opportunity we shall have of directing the attention of our friends to the Great Henderson Kentucky Prize Scheme, the drawing of which is to come off at the Masonic Temple, in Louisville on the 24th of December. There is probably no scheme that ever has been or ever will be offered in this country, that merits a better patronage from the public than this does. Conceived and conducted by men of the most religious integrity and of large wealth, and endorsed by nearly every leading official and citizen in the State of Kentucky, the very name of which is a synonym of financial honor the world over, it is worthy of all confidence. It is certainly an honorable way of disposing of valuable property, and we doubt whether there is a person in the world who is not attracted by the idea of gaining an easy fortune in this way. We understand that all orders for tickets which reach Louisville, up to the hour of drawing on the evening of the 24th, will participate in the Scheme. Responsible parties, who are known in Louisville, or can give good reference, they can order by telegraph.

Complexion. It is an impossibility for any person afflicted with a diseased liver, or with any disorder of the digestive organs, to have a good or clear complexion. "Blood and Goutan Bitters" will remove all disease from the liver and digestive organs, and by thus giving health and strength to these organs, remove that sallowness of appearance and roughness of the skin noticed in so many. This Bitters is not a beverage.

One of the few really successful enterprises of the day is Parker & Co's. Our Dollar sale. Their system offers a rare opportunity for the purchase of the finest and one useful articles, at a price that comes within the reach of all classes, than any other.

It is a well understood fact, that certain classes of goods pay the dealer a very large percentage of profit. This appears almost necessary, especially in Fancy Goods, Jewellery, Silver Plated Ware, &c., of which a dealer does not sell sufficient of any one article to make it an object of trade, and is obliged to purchase in small quantities; and when the goods are sold by three or four different classes of merchants, and each charge a very large profit, the price becomes double the original cost of manufacture before reaching the hands of the people.

It is in such goods Parker & Co. 98 & 109 Summer St., Boston, deal most exclusively. Their sales are so immense they make each article a specialty, often buying "millions" of a manufacturer can produce. Their system gives universal satisfaction. Read their advertisement.

PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.
It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the tar, by which its highest medicinal properties are retained. It invigorates the digestive organs and restores the appetite. It strengthens the debilitated system. It purifies and enriches the blood, and expels from the system the corruption which acrofula breeds on the lungs. It dissolves the mucus or phlegm which stops the air passages of the lungs. Its healing principle acts upon the irritated surface of the lungs and throat, penetrating to each diseased part, relieving pain and subduing inflammation. It is the result of years of study and experiment, and it is offered to the afflicted with positive assurance of its power to cure the following diseases. If the patient has not too long delayed a resort to the means of cure.
